

Hannah Lynn Cohen

Violin

hannahcohen97@gmail.com | 413-441-6327

Hannah Lynn Cohen has been collaborating with and studying under master teachers on a national and global scale for over fifteen years. Ms. Cohen recently graduated with a Master of Music in Violin Performance from New York University Steinhardt School where she was a student of Kurt Nikkanen and Cyrus Beroukhim. She completed her undergraduate studies at the Boston University School of Music. There, Ms. Cohen was a student of Peter Zazofsky. She began her violin studies at the age of four and her previous teachers include Jan Repko, Wendy Sharp, and Betty Jean Hagen. She made her orchestral debut with the Holyoke Civic Symphony Orchestra playing Lalo Symphonie Espagnole as the winner of their concerto competition in May, 2015. Ms. Cohen has attended numerous festivals including National Music Festival, Green Mountain Chamber Music Festival, and MusicAlp International Academy of Music. Additionally, she has performed in masterclasses led by Joseph Silverstein, Daniel Philips, Irina Muresanu, Robin Sharp, Klaudia Szlachta and Bayla Keyes. Ms. Cohen currently resides in New York City where she is pursuing an Artist Diploma at New York University Steinhardt School with Kurt Nikkanen and Cyrus Beroukhim, while simultaneously holding the position of Adjunct Teacher of Violin Studies at NYU.